A HOME with good size and practical functionality where people can live in rather than just admire its beauty.

Alinda is an exquisite villa, but we also add uniqueness to it to make it even more special. Alinda offers more than what other projects could, for example, functionality, room size, and eco-friendly design. Nowadays, the value of properties is increasing year after year, but the quality is not improving as the price rises. Another point that makes us different from other developers is that we pay attention to the environment of Phuket.

Therefore, the project will be the most sustainable project. To explain, we will include the Solar roof system. Furthermore, the underground water tank which is installed inside the project will allow our customers to be able to reserve the water supply for the house. Lastly, for an air conditioner, we will select the brand that we had experienced which could guarantee the efficiency in energy saving.
